Patrolman Finds Three Men
Preparing to Break
Into Pawnshop

Patrolman William M. Gustin of the East Endham street station frustrated an attempt to break into the pawnshop of Max Rosen, at No. 14 Northham street. The three burglars fled through South End streets with the officer in pursuit.

Gustin's attention was attracted to the cry of the breaking of a window of the pawnshop while he was patrolling on Shawmut avenue. He hurried toward the pawnshop. One of the burglars, acting as a "look out" for the two, called Gustin. He hurried the rest.

Disregarding Patrolman Gustin's commands to halt or be fired at, the three men broke into a run, outside the pawnshop as they went and disappeared down an alley off Camden street.

At the furniture nearest Northampton and Camden streets, Gustin commenced firing. While Gustin's attention was to fire over the heads of the men, it appeared at one time as one of their number swayed and was about to fall.

First impression was that the man had been wounded, but later investigation revealed no blood stains along the avenue of chase.

In a considerable tactical, Gustin and other officers combed the entire South End district. Two suspects were rounded up, but upon furnishing alibis were released.

Nothing, apparently, was stolen from the pawnshop. The window of it had been broken with a sidewalk brick.

He testified the surcharge was not going to railroad earnings over 8 per cent, and that most of the surcharge revenue was given to railroads having a low income.

MURDER OF 3 JAILED; PROBE SAD STORY

Woman Is Accused of Selling Leased Property to Support Children

Mrs. Catherine Frank, of No. 31 Chelsea street, Charlestown, the mother of three children, is in Charles street jail today, awaiting disposition on a confused charge of concealing stolen property.

Behind the arrest of the woman, who is in a story of want and privation which she claims caused her to dispose of property purchased on the installment plan.

According to testimony given before Judge Parmelee in Municipal Court the woman purchased a phonograph, valued at $60, making a small deposit. She failed to meet the payments, and when the company attempted to replevin the machine, they were unable to find it.

Special Officers Lynch and Brennan of Division 2 told the court Mrs. Frank had turned the phonograph over to another person, who said it and that she used the proceeds to support herself and children.

The policeman said they found the woman had done the same thing with goods purchased from a number of different stores, including at least a dozen phonographs and a radio.

During this period she changed her address from Malton to Brockton, South End, Charlestown and other places. Maiden authorities are said to be seeking Mrs. Frank for passing a worthless check.

When arrested she was living under the name of Mrs. G. Brooks. She told the police her husband had been out of work for some time and had disappeared. The woman is now receiving treatment in the outpatient department of the Massachusetts General Hospital, and requires an operation. Judge Parmelee continued the case one week for further investigation.

TRAFFIC OFFICER REPORTED MISSING

This letter, sent to a brother officer who roomed with Tynell on Harvard street, East Boston, was not on the official form and therefore not acceptable, they claim.

Austrian Artist Is Guest of Mrs. A. Lincoln Filene

Every Windler's Parents Giving Dance at Hotel Somerset Tonight to Introduce Daughter to Hub Smart Set.

By Betty Alden

THE LION OF THE MOMENT YESTERDAY was Leo Katz, the Austrian artist, for whom Mrs. A. Lincoln Filene entertained at tea at her town house in West Hill place.

MRS. FILENE CALLED her place the "Little Italian House" and a charming group of architecture is there. There were any number of Mr. Katz's works scattered about the rooms, and they came in for much discussion and appreciation.

NATURALLY MRS. ALVAN T. FULLER was a center of attention as well. She was at the tea, a handsome figure in sweeping black hat and wine red gown. Her hostess, Mrs. Filene, also wore the warm red tone, and vastly becoming it was.

OF THE GUESTS, there were Madame Koussouffsky, Miss Frances Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Forbes, Mr. Nathan Haskell Dole, Mr. A. J. Philpott and other notables of Boston's artistic and musical sets.

MRS. FILENE, by the way, soon goes to Washington to star with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Dodd. Mrs. Dodd, the time Catherine Filene, who made such a notable place here for herself in work for and with young girls, is keeping on in her chosen career in her Washington environment.

JUST NOW SHE is engaged in a new employment, that of writing. And everyone who remembers her brilliant achievement as Catherine is keenly interested.

RICHARD PLATT'S afternoon of music drew many of the devotees of local standing to the studio of his Lane street house, to hear Mrs. Marion Kingsbury sing, and to hear Mrs. Philip Bunker play. Mrs. Dudley Pitts, was, as always, a delightful accompanist.

MR. PLATT ENTERTAINS with much zest, and the hour of music followed by the hour of tea and chat, finds him the perfect host.

AS USUAL, TWO of the younger set were at the tea tables. For yesterday's affair Ellen Frothingham, daughter of the Langhams, Frothinghams, and Suzanne Asper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Asper of Cambridge, did the honors.

EACH GIRL was attired in a costume of black and white and each was strikingly individual. Miss Frothingham was designed in old white figure as black, and Miss Asper was in satin with touches of sapphire.

DEBUTANTE INTERESTS this evening focus in the dance at the Hotel Somerset. Mr. and Mrs. G. Herbert Windler are giving for their third daughter, Evelyn Windler.

IT WILL BECOME a formal introduction that charming young girl to the local smart world, in which she has figured so prominently all the season. She is one of the loveliest of the buds.

THE WINDLERS HAVE their town house in Bay State road and a home in England, where much of their time is spent. They are sailing shortly for the other side, almost immediately after the dance.

JULIET GREENE, but daughter of Mrs. Bertram Greene, shares honors with Evelyn Windler at the affair. They will make a fetching pair, the one of fair and the other of dark coloring and both good to look upon.

SMART BOX HOLDERS for the Aviation Ball tomorrow evening include Mesdames William Gorton, Henry S. John Smith, Edwin E. Webster, Charles Francis Ayer, Francis I. Amory, Dudley Roney, Louis R. DeBettiger and Clarence K. Edwards.

"I have been drinking liquor all my life and I don't intend to stop," she said the court. The judge gave her the alternative of paying a $100 fine or going to jail for ten days. She promptly chose the jail term.

Miss Rosemond Adie, whose marriage to Robert Almy, set for April 23, at the Church of the Redeemer in Chestnut Hill, promises to be of outstanding importance in the roster of Spring weddings. Just now Miss Adie and her mother, Mr. Andrew Adie, are traveling in the tropics.

EMPLOYEE WILL WED HER, SAYS MISS HALL

Society Woman Returns
License, But Insists Marriage to Take Place in Spring

Despite the fact that Miss Helen W. Hall, 48-year-old Newton society woman and daughter of James W. Hall, millionaire lumber king, has surrendered the marriage license which she took out to wed Hans Pedersen, 54, her former chauffeur, wedding bells will ring for the couple in the Spring.

Miss Hall is authority for the statement. Her only reason for surrendering the license, she told officials of Newton City Hall, was because she feared the document had become void.

Miss Hall emphatically denied that Pedersen had run away because he feared he would not make a suitable husband for his society wife.

World Made Better by Acts Like This!

Public servants frequently have thankless tasks, and in consequence, sometimes become hard and embittered.

James M. Morgan of No. 181 Westville street, Dorchester, bears witness, however, that the milk of human kindness has not entirely dried up in the persons of trolley car conductors.

Mr. Morgan reports that while riding on an Ashmont-Milton car, he noticed a very feeble old woman, who signalled she wished to get off near Freshbury square. Conductor No. 1078, stopped the car, helped her to the street, and then assisted her safely to the sidewalk.

It is acts like this, that make the world a better place to live in. If you notice thoughtful acts on the part of public servants, tell the Boston Evening American about them.

Dempsey Finds Magnates "Regular Fellows"

Champion Describes Meeting With Vaucian and Judge Gary

"The pretty granddaughter smiled, and I turned red, and then Mrs. Vaucian said, in the sweetest way—"Red what happened to Jack Dempsey at the multimillionaire's house party."

By JACK DEMPSEY (As Told to W. B. Seabrook) CHAPTER XXIV.

HEAD learned—but not from Jack Dempsey—that several great captains of American industry and finance were numbered among the people he knew intimately.

Each time I had tried to get him to talk about it, he staid. Some times he merely changed the subject, or bluffed me by saying "No. Still, if I talk about stuff like that, people will think I've got the swelled head."

And he's honest about it. His one flaw in connection with these affairs is that I may lead him to boasting or bragging when he doesn't mean to.

He "covers up" when I don't direct a question. Then, sometime later, navy as a child, and approves of something actually different, his "comes through" with just what I want—and told with a perfectly unaffected naivete.

SERMON IN STEAM

One day this winter he drove me over to Jersey City, N. J., to see a train wreck. While we stood at a grade crossing, a train reared past, with the usual big Baldwin locomotive. Jack said:

"It's a great sight. A big steam engine, always gives me a thrill. I heard they made more than a hundred dollars a month. And it seemed to me a great way to travel. And I kind of liked machinery, too."

"What about the man who built the engine, Jack?"

He said:

"You know, Mr. Samuel S. Van"

Judge Albert H. Gary, who makes a deep impression on Jack Dempsey.

plain, down in Philadelphia, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works—old S. V. is what his friends call him—and believe me, he is some man.

"I'd hate to have had to meet him in any prize ring, but he was a little bit younger. Six feet and a half tall, and still as hard as the steel that goes into his own machines. I admire him so much that I hope he won't take it wrong if I say that I feel he is a sort of friend to me. He was the first man of that sort you know, who ever invited me to visit him in his house. It was the first big house I'd ever been in like that—a sort of regular home party, you know, down at Rosemont."

REAL FINE FOLKS.

"Those and such places in the newspapers, you get the wrong idea about it. You hear names like Vaucian, and Gary, and Schwab, and you think they must be altogether different from other folks."

"Judge Gary and Mr. Schwab were both down there that time, and a lot of the other big ones came in on Sunday for lunch. It was queer to see them close up like that. They talk about hunting and fishing and eating and sleeping and snoring things that any sensible healthy man is interested in. They talk high and mighty sometimes. But they never talk high-brow."

"The only difference between them and any other men, I guess, is that they've got more sense—and I'm not even sure of that's exactly it. I think there may be a lot of men who have got as much sense as they have, and who have never done anything with it. I think maybe what makes the real difference is that they've got more energy, more force, more driving power. They are all alike in one thing, though—big ones—they've got a kind of strength that you feel without knowing exactly what it is."

"And believe me, if Mr. Vaucian is a sample, they work a dogged fight harder than any of the men that work for them. The Friday night I got there, we sat up, in the big library, until nearly twelve o'clock, talking about dogs, and horses and beautiful things and one thing and another—I thought I would be embarrassed and maybe not know how to talk or act, but when everybody else just acts naturally, it's easy enough to be comfortable yourself."

"Before we went to bed, Mrs. Vaucian asked me what time I would like to be called for breakfast, and

"and yet both are the same age"

If Hair Is Turning Gray, use Sage Tea

YOU can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you get a bottle of Weyl's Sage and Sulphur Compound. It's not a dye. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually. Says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Weyl's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

Boxer Finds Big Capitalists Are Among Hardest of Workers

I said that if it was convenient I would breakfast at whatever time Mr. Vaucian did—and she smiled, and a pretty granddaughter by the name of Patricia giggled, and some of the others laughed.

"I turned red, for I thought I must have pulled some sort of a blunder and wondered what it was, and began to wish I'd read the etiquette book more seriously. But that wasn't what was wrong with me. I was 'mashed by dogs,' at that point. I was thinking, for she said, in the sweetest way:

"My dear boy, we only smile because Mr. Vaucian rises every morning at five o'clock."

(TO BE CONTINUED)

In the next chapter Jack Dempsey tells the extraordinary story of how he was "mashed by dogs," at the Hotel Adlon, in Berlin—of seeing girl prize fighters in cruel fights, in a finish—and other extraordinary experiences in Europe.

The "Roosevelt Apartments," for years an eyesore to the people of Long Beach, is no more. As a result of his conviction for keeping a disorderly house, James Boyas climbed a ladder and removed the sign from over the place while a crowd of more than 200 boys and girls looked on with interest.

The proprietor of the place was found guilty and sentenced to two years in the House of Correction as the result of evidence obtained in raid on the apartments and was ordered to remove the sign by the town licensing commission.

DAUGHTER KAY. WRS. THE DON'T KNOW OF PLOT TO KILL MATE

ATTORNS PARENTS' DEFENSES

refute the statements of Fielding, who turned back his evidence after admitting the shooting.

State Sanborn himself bowed slightly when taking the oath. When the girl entered the courtroom and took her seat on the witness stand at noon, the spectators chiefly men and girls, leaned forward eagerly to catch every word uttered by Fielding, who said he murdered Cote at the instigation of Mrs. Cote, whose father he was, and had testified that State had known of the plot the only feature kept secret from her and her brother being the reward which he claimed had been promised him, consisting of a cottage and a new automobile.

A portion of the defense, Clement, Jr., nineteen years old, of New York City, had contradicted a part of Fielding's testimony to the effect that some was in the house the night of the murder. Clement said the girl had gone to the garage meeting.

DIDN'T KNOW OF PLOT.

Asked when she first learned of the murder of her associate, State replied crisply:

"The first I knew about it was when we were brought to the sheriff's office in Portland on November 10. I was sitting at the table in the room where we were sitting and said to Mrs. Fielding: 'You're lying. I've just learned that he killed Alphonse Cote.' That was the first I knew Cote was dead."

"What did Mrs. Fielding say when he told her that?" asked Attorney Harry E. Nixon of counsel for the defense.

"Mrs. Fielding said, 'He has?'"

"That was all."

Attorney General Raymond Fielding asked him on question in cross-examination. It was:

"And you are the daughter of Lot—"

"Freeman Cote?"

State was a checked plaid dress, imitation pearl necklace and a brown coat. Her blonde hair was styled in waves. She had left her hat on the bench near her mother, who watched her with the closest of eyes. She had near her cousin's table.

FIELDING PAID VISITS.

"—Have you been?"

Asked, aged 25, Ralph, 29, and Fred, 25, Cote, a half-brother, who is right.

"Do you know Charles Henry Fielding?"

"—A—Do you know how you know him?"

"—A—For five years."

"—Was he in the house the night of the murder?"

"—A—He was."

"—How long?"

"—A—As long as I can remember."

"—Was Mrs. Fielding related to your mother?"

"—A—Yes. Mrs. Fielding's father married my mother."

"—Then that makes Mrs. Fielding a half-sister to your mother?"

"—A—Yes."

"—Were Mrs. Fielding and your mother friendly?"

"—A—Yes."

"—Did she visit your home frequently?"

"—A—Yes, and she had been here to spend weekends and about two weeks vacation with us in the fall."

"—Did you notice any change in Cote's conduct toward your mother?"

"—A—Yes, he became disagreeable and began to quarrel with her."

"—When did that change occur?"

"—When we inherited money from my mother's aunt, her father's sister."

"—Did he have any cry about it?"

"—A—Yes."

"—And were these money matters discussed pretty often in your family?"

"—A—Yes."

"—Did you and Mrs. Fielding know about two money disputes?"

"—A—No."

HENRY AT SECRET CODE.

"—Was there an attempt to keep it secret?"

"—A—No."

"—Were these matters discussed in the presence of anyone who was supposed to be there?"

"—A—Yes."

"—You heard Cote say your mother about money?"

"—A—Yes."

"—To the government exhibit?"

"—A—Oh, that came from an old book which has been in our family for years."

"—Was there any secret about that code?"

"—A—No."

"—Did you ever hear the murder code discussed in your mother and Fielding?"

"—A—No."

Witness Clement testified in detail to alleged threats made by Fielding against Cote while the witness and his father were in Gorham on a hunting trip at the time of the murder.

"In the presence of my father and myself, a few days before the shooting, Fielding said that as long as he lived he would be in the house that made that little woman," Fielding Clement, explained that Fielding was alluding to Cote.

CLOSE-UPS AT THE COTE DEATH TRIAL

Search Boston for 2 girls

Susan's Eyes Are Puzzle in Court

Speakers at Cote Trial Turn Eyes Towards Daughter of Woman Accused as Slayer

New York, Feb. 18.—The mystic mazes of Chinese occultism in five American cities have been searched today for two pretty Brooklyn girls who have been missing more than a month.

New York authorities have sent descriptions of Anna and Susan, Chinese girls, to Boston, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles and ask that these cities search for the Oriental beauties of those cities.

In the mountains New York's Chinatown is being searched for them.

The two girls, both under seventeen, disappeared on January 5, taking $200 with them. They were found at school and were always together.

Because they were talented, it is believed they went away in the hope of getting on the vaudeville stage. The authorities are working on the idea that they are in the hands of a Chinese man and held captive.

Their parents, who are natives of Lithuania, first advertised in foreign language newspapers for them. These pleas brought several letters. The girls were then contacted by the police.

Because of the girls are being held by Chinese and are being taken from city to city.

As the time draws near, the realizations increase until presently a change is heard. Here she comes—'that's her daughter,' and the crowd awakes, standing on tiptoe for a glimpse of the girl whose mother's lover has killed her husband.

Along the corridor comes the slight figure. The blue eyes look right and left with a dazed expression. Into the little anteroom which is shared by reporters and photographers, she goes and leaves her wraps, smiling a greeting to those whom she knows.

What is in the heart of this innocent girl? The police believe the state stated that both she and her nineteen-year-old brother, Ralph, are the heirs to a fortune of $100,000. It is said that in so, for months this child has borne the terrible secret.

ALL UP IN CONFERENCE

Geneva, Feb. 18 (A.P.)—The statement that the American delegation to the international opium conference, by its boldness, directness and fervor, gave supreme impetus to the whole anti-drug campaign, is a utterly unchallengeable. President Wilson's policy in this matter is the only one that has been victorious in the conference.

He characterized as his masterpiece the incident of the withdrawal of the American delegation from the Geneva meeting.

"His voice was raised, no voice can be raised against the justice of the principles enunciated by the American delegation," he asserted.

He mentioned, among the concrete achievements of the conference, the creation of international control of the drug traffic, the establishment of a central board, and the widening of the supervision of dangerous drugs in all directions, now placing an embargo on air shipments.

'KIDNEY' FISTIC CHAMP, HAS A PRO

LAURENCE, FEB. 18

Lawrence, Feb. 18.—Lawrence friends of Johnny (Kiloby) Corcoran, former welterweight champion of New England, came by machine to attend the big celebration at Wakefield last night in Kiloby's honor.

Kiloby Corcoran had joined the ranks of the benedictus had been a secret among very few for weeks. The news came from a source to Lawrence people who got invitations to come to the affair.

Kiloby took for his bride Ann Connolly of No. 18 Prospect street, Wakefield, December 19. Kiloby leaves this week for an extended trip to Bermuda, following which he will come to this city to make his home.

Corcoran, the T. D. champion, staged one of the most remarkable comebacks in fistic circles. As far back as fifteen years ago he decided to give up the ring. He went to France with Battery C and while there began his life in the ring with renewed vigor. He came back to enter into fistic again but was defeated.

In August, 1913, he won the championship of New England in a series of victories. He has had no contests in the past three years.

DIVORCES HUSBAND

"DEAD" FOR NINE YEARS

White Plains, N. Y., Feb. 18.—Mrs. Ellen May Barnes of New Rochelle today was granted a dissolution of her marriage to a man believed to have been dead more than nine years today.

Mrs. Barnes, testifying that her husband had left her in 1913, introduced evidence in New York City that she had been married to him in 1915. This was the only evidence of the death in her possession, she said.

Mrs. Barnes based her action on the provisions of the "Dead Man's Law," providing that marriages may be dissolved after the five-year period of the husband or wife.

'MILLION DOLLAR' TOOTH PRESERVED TO SCIENCE

New York, Feb. 18.—The world's most valuable tooth, the bespectacled molar, which anthropologists consider as evidence that a marriage existed in America in prehistoric times, recently was broken but later was reconstructed. It was found today at the American Museum of Natural History, where the relic is permanently lodged.

It had been taken to an X-ray laboratory for photographs to be used in study of the molar fact, breaking it into three pieces. The molar was covered and the "million dollar" tooth was rebuilt.

Washington, Feb. 18 (N.S.)—Narcotic drug addicts in this country number from 110,000 to 150,000. The United States Public Health Service announced today.

White publicity given the evils of drug addiction, co-operation of physicians and the average attack against drug traffic by the Federal and State governments has reduced the number of addicts from 180,000 a few years ago, officials asserted.

WALTHAM WATCH DROPS ANCIENT LITIGATION

Sued in 1908 Man Who Resold Company's Products Under Their Fixed Rates

The oldest case on the docket of the Federal District Court here was settled by mutual consent.

It was the case of the Waltham Watch Company against Charles A. Keene, retail jeweler of No. 110 Broadway, New York. Adolph H. Rosenfeld of New York and Julius Nelson of Boston appeared for Keene, and the office of Matthews & Spring for the watch company.

On April 15, 1908, the watch company filed a bill in equity in the Federal Court, asking an injunction restraining Keene from selling Waltham watch movements at prices lower than those fixed by the company.

Judge Dodge in United States District Court granted an injunction on July 23, 1910, to which Keene's attorney filed a demurrer, and former Attorney-General Dana McKee was appointed a master to hear the evidence. He heard the case, but before making his report was killed by a fall from a horse.

The case then hung fire while litigation was carried on in New York, until May 19, 1915, when World A. Halliday was appointed master. He submitted a report on June 23, 1915, showing that Keene was able to buy in Europe, duty free, Waltham watch movements at a cost of $10 each, while wholesaling in this country for $15.00. The report showed Keene had imported 20,000 of these movements and had advertised the fact that he was doing so. It was the advertising, according to Attorney Rosenfeld, that was the cause of the original suit. By agreement today the case was dropped and Judge Dodge issued a decree dismissing the bill in equity which automatically lifts the injunction.

SAYS FRANCE CAN'T PAY U. S. MORE THAN 2 P. C.

London, Feb. 19 (A.P.)—Speaking before the American Chamber of Commerce today, Walter Thomas Layton, editor of the Economist, declared that both Great Britain and America would have to apply to their continental debtors the principles which had been applied to Germany in the Dawes plan. He said that England and America would have to realize they must base their claims on the debtors' capacity to pay.

He thought the most the United States could possibly get, of try to obtain, was 2 per cent. interest from France and 1 per cent. from Italy.

PHONE SAVINGS RELATED AT HEARING

The New England Telephone & Telegraph Company saved $1,245,350 in 1922 by purchasing supplies under contract from the Western Electric Company, instead of buying in the open market, according to testimony by Vice-President Edward B. Cox of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company today.

Vice-President Cox, who as a senior official made a name for himself in engineering superintending the laying of the Boston-New York cables, came from New York to defend the New England company's contracts with the Western Electric Company which have been attacked at the hearings before the Puole Committee in the company's request for permission to raise rates.

A chart was introduced as an exhibit to show that non-contract customers of the Western Electric Company, during the period from 1921 to 1922, paid from 2 per cent. to 40 per cent. more for telephone material than the prices paid by the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company under its contract with the Western Electric Company. In most years the differential was 30 per cent. or more.

Another exhibit compared prices charged the telephone companies with list prices of two companies in competition with Western Electric. In the five years preceding January 1, 1923, one firm's prices were 20 to 42 per cent. higher and the other firm's 17 to 30 per cent. higher on similar material.

Vice-president Cox of the American company offered numerous charts showing that several independent telephone companies throughout the country paid much more for telephone apparatus and had covered cables than the New England company paid to the Western Electric Company for similar material under the standard supply contract. These were offered in defense of the contract between the Western Electric company and the Western Electric.

MRS. WHITNEY'S TRUNKS TO BE EXAMINED

Judge Frost in Suffolk Probate court today issued an order permitting Attorney Albert F. Flint, temporary conservator of the estate of Mrs. Annie Isabelle Whitney, missing widow of the late T. D. Whitney, Boston linen merchant, to examine ten trunks, eleven cases and other parcels held by the management of the Hotel Brunswick, which a conservator be appointed in default of an unpaid bill of $600 owed by the wealthy eighty-year-old woman.

Mrs. Whitney and a friend, Miss Annie A. Smith, disappeared mysteriously from the apartment they occupied in Danvers while consoling themselves by attempting to sell papers on Mrs. Whitney in the court action incident to the petition that a conservator be appointed over the widow's estate.

Mrs. Whitney lived for a long time at the Brunswick.

When the hotel announced the sale of Mrs. Whitney's property Judge Frost issued an order forbidding the sale of the goods after a friend of the aged widow paid $500 on her account.

Attorney Flint has been anxious to locate the missing Mrs. Whitney so that her appearance in court might be made permanent. Her estate is valued at from $50,000 to $100,000.

GARAGE KEEPER SLAIN FOR REVENGE POLICE SAY

Muskegon, Mich., Feb. 18.—Hubert L. Hannon, fifty-five, today was found murdered in the Abraham & Strauss Service Station here, where he had been employed the last eight years.

His body was found by incoming truckmen, rifled with bullets, and lying behind a row of trucks at the rear of the garage. His own revolver was drawn but not fired.

A $25,000 shipment of merchandise from the concern's department store in Brooklyn had not been moved. The authorities have started a round up of all discharged Abraham & Strauss employees on the theory the murder was revenge rather than robbery.

BARRYMORE TO FACE "LONDONERS AS 'HAMLET'"

London, Feb. 19 (A.P.)—London critics were today sharpening knives for tonight's debut of John Barrymore, who invades the home of Shakespeare as "Hamlet" in the new production of "Hamlet" at the Lyric Theatre. The Hamlet, where the first Lord Barrymore played fifty years ago.

The coming of John Barrymore has aroused the greatest interest.

BROOKSIDE MILK

4% Butter Fat

We feel that it is advisable to publicly correct inaccurate statements that are being made to milk consumers, either through ignorance or for petty reasons in trying to ignore "Grade A" milk with our Brookside milk.

BROOKSIDE MILK has maintained and will maintain a higher standard of quality than would be necessary of milk that may be labelled "Grade A."

BROOKSIDE MILK is fresher. It is less than 24 hours old at the time of pasteurizing and bottling, and the majority of it is bottled and pasteurized while it is less than 6 hours old. Grade A milk may be held 48 hours before pasteurizing and bottling.

BROOKSIDE MILK will not be accepted at our plant if it contains one-half the bacteria allowed by the Grade A standard.

BROOKSIDE MILK reaches the consumer fresher by 24 hours than any large supply of milk in this territory and has averaged, by analysis made of 2,000 samples during the last years, less than 9,000 bacteria per cc. The bacteria count permitted on Grade A milk is 25,000 per cc.

BROOKSIDE MILK dairies are inspected and subject to control of all the boards of health in the territory in which we operate, including the Boston Board, and subject as well to our own rigid inspection and requirements. The bottling plant at Bellevue Falls, Vt., is equipped with modern, automatic safeguards and sanitary devices necessary for the successful handling and bottling of the highest grade of milk.

After all, the final test of any milk revolves itself to its FRESHNESS, its CREAM content, and its bacteria count, and in each of these respects Brookside Milk stands preeminent. Our price is 12¢ per quart and should you pay twice this price, you cannot get a milk which has greater safeguards surrounding its purity and quality.

WIDOW CLAIMS BODY OF SING SUICIDE

Ossining, N. Y., Feb. 18.—Mrs. Edna Ford of Brooklyn has claimed the body of her husband, William E. Ford, who committed suicide Monday night by hanging in his death house cell in Sing Sing. An undertaker came to Ossining and prepared the body for shipment to Brooklyn today.

Mrs. Ford, who was reported yesterday to be dying from a malady that defied diagnosis, asked for the body to be sent to her in the morning and to be buried in the cemetery of her relatives, her friends said.

BANK OFFICIAL IN GLOUCESTER UNDER FIRE

Bonding Company Expected to Act on $10,000 Shortage

Glooucester, Feb. 18.—Action against Horace A. Smith, former treasurer of the Gloucester Safe Deposit and Trust Company, is expected today by the bonding company which furnished an indemnity bond of $50,000, as the result of a shortage discovered in the collateral held to cover loans made to Smith.

The shortage in collateral amounts to $10,000, according to bank officials. There is also an overdraft against Smith of $1,000 the officials say, caused by the payment of checks which he drew when there were not sufficient funds in his account to meet them.

DISCREPANCY PUT AT $3,000

A shortage in the funds of the Addition Gilbert Hospital, of which Smith was treasurer, also is reported. The amount of this shortage has not been determined as yet.

The bank held collateral worth $25,000 to cover a $22,000 loan to Smith. All of the collateral was deposited in the bank when the last examination was made in the summer, officials said. Since then it has been removed without authority of the directors, it is charged. The total discrepancy in Smith's accounts is reported at $3,000.

SUCCESSOR NAMED

Smith has given the bank a blank mortgage on property owned by him here and in West Gloucester as security against this shortage. The bank also is protected by the indemnity bond.

Smith had been connected with the bank since its organization in 1922. He had been treasurer for ten years.

GIRL FREED IN SLAYING OF SUITOR

Jersey City, Feb. 18.—(Universal)—President Mario Zella, the Jersey girl-mother, who stood trial for slaying her lover, John Remo, to death with a penknife, has got the thing today that she's prayed for—just one more chance—to prove to the world that I can be a good girl.

Early today, after nearly three hours' deliberation, the jury charged with her fate, filed into a crowded Jersey City courtroom.

She knelt on the court room floor, made the sign of the cross and bowed her head for a moment. Amid sobbing herself, she stood erect and faced the jury.

"No guilt!"

She smiled and fell backward upon the floor from where baby—the five-year-old daughter, Angelina, whose birthday Mrs. Zella had passed under oath—stood upon a front bench, held out her chubby hands and cried, with tears rolling down her cheeks:

"Mama—you ain't gon' to do. See—I've been waiting to take you home."

SPRINGFIELD SHOOTING IS MYSTERY

Merchant Found Shot Through Heart in Store; Lack of Clues Baffles Police

Springfield, Feb. 18.—Springfield police today are running down every possible clue in a hunt for a solution to the mysterious slaying of Robert Asher, a merchant, who was found dead in his store at No. 222 Main street.

A customer, entering the store, found Asher's body and summoned the police. It was first believed that Asher had died of heart failure, but examination by a surgeon disclosed a slight stream of blood trickling from the man's heart.

The wound had been partly sealed by the bullet and was almost unnoticeable, the authorities said. Asher was almost instantaneously killed, according to the medical examiner. A careful search of the store failed to disclose a weapon or any clue to the identity of the merchant's assailant.

Another attractive international college hockey game is on the card tonight at the Arena when Boston College plays McGill University.

The early season game between these teams resulted in a 2-1 win for the Canadians. Those who attended this game will recall the rugged work employed by the McGill men. Seldom has a college team played such sturdy hockey as the McGill players displayed in this game. At that time Boston College was not prepared for this style of play. But Coach Charlie Foote says tonight will furnish a different story.

Since their last battle here, both Boston College and McGill have been through strenuous competition. Lorde, R. A. and Boston University have been successful victims of the Eagles. McGill has not finished its Canadian collegiate championship, being topped by Toronto varsity and Queen's College. Coach Charlie Foote and "Shag" Grainger will decide tonight the length of the period. Since both teams are at the top of their game and in excellent condition, it is likely that twenty-minute periods will be played.

Coach Foote expects to have the dashing Red Gordon back in the defense content. This sturdy little fellow has been out of the game with a wounded foot, but he says he is ready.

OLD TIME SPORT STORIES

Billy McCarney, Manager of Weinert, Had Had Many Tough Breaks in Career

This is the thirty-third of a series of articles on old-time athletes by George V. Tuohy, famous sports promoter, who has been prominent in athletics for thirty-five years.

Billy McCarney, manager of Charley Weinert, has always had a soft spot in his heart for Boston, so that when he brought Charley Weinert here to box Jack Sharkey last week his memory must have recalled the days when he was among the foremost amateur lightweight of his time and one of the principals in a contest at the B. A. A. that stands out as one of the finest battles of all time among the medal chasers.

This was when he battled the late Con Hardigan four rounds of 30 even a character that the judges and referee could not agree and the contest went on record as a draw. This is, I believe, one of the very few instances in the annals of amateur boxing when such a verdict was rendered.

MANY TOUGH BREAKS

Billy later became a manager of losers, and associated with the old Kensington A. C. of Philadelphia, his home city. It was through his connection with this organization that I was called upon to referee the first meeting between Terry McGovern and Freddy Snyder, the match between Pluto, the Australian, against Fairbairn and other events in that city.

In the years between then and now we have kept up the friendship then formed, so that his career in every department of ring sport has been followed by me with more than the usual interest.

Billy was always a likable chap, with a keen sense of humor, taking the tough breaks with a grin. And in the time I have known him he has taken many tough breaks. Often he has been on the point of winning a fortune only to have something go wrong at the eleventh hour.

BITTEREST BLOW

Possibly the bitterest blow was the unfortunate death of Luther McCarney, who died following a bout with Arthur Peigy at Calgary at a time when he was matched to box Jack Johnson and had a fine chance of winning.

By a peculiar coincidence I was in Chicago when the details of that match were arranged and was present in the room of a hospital there with Jack Curley and McCarney at the time. Johnson had given Curley power of attorney. The reason why the hospital was the place chosen was because Curley was living there, due to an operation on Mrs. Curley. In fact, just as she passed the room in which we were on her way to the operating table she called out:

Be sure to have that match arranged before I come back!

PLANNED TITLE FIGHT

This was in early April and the details agreed upon called for a fight to take place at Las Vegas, N. M., the following Fourth of July. Johnson had been seriously sick with pneumonia shortly before and had not fully recovered his strength. It was on this that McCarney and McCarney banked on helping them to recover the championship to the white race.

It was agreed that for the time being the inner details of the match be kept quiet, so as to "steer" the thing up. McCarney was to start a nation-wide campaign, and when the proper time came after enough publicity had been secured.

BILLY MCCARNEY

was to be made that the match had been arranged.

HANDSOME YOUTH

McCarney and McCarney showed at the Howard, fought several bouts in New York and then went west, picking up some easy money, but earning a lot of reputation in a manner in which he drew a lot of his opponents.

Luther was as handsome a youth as ever adorned the ring and he fought with a power and a style which were never in doubt. Every where carrying a crowd, the top of the white race he was a great attraction and was in big demand all over the country.

Felix was another "White Horse" but few considered him as a really serious contender, while admitting that he was a terrific fighter. They met at Calgary on May 24 the Queen's birthday, before a big crowd, that taxed the capacity of the arena. Early in the bout, a clip from Felix's neck and the young man to the world's champion. The fight ended instantly.

Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fighter, then a husky battler, took McCarney's place against Johnson, but was beaten handily by the big black. So McCarney's chance to become a manager of a world-to-be boxer, passed away.

Inside Golf

By CHESTER HORTON
Master of all golf handicaps. "Only most successful teacher," says "Club" man.

We discussed previously the stance position for the medium up right swing. The player should understand that in dropping the right shoulder as he grasps the club with his right hand he does not let this shoulder move out.

DETAIL OF STANCE FOR MEDIUM UP RIGHT SWING. THE RIGHT SHOULDER SHOULD BE PARALLEL TO THE LINE OF THE CLUBHEAD. THE RIGHT ARM SHOULD BE PARALLEL TO THE CLUBHEAD. THE RIGHT LEG SHOULD BE PARALLEL TO THE CLUBHEAD.

Now for the back swing. First, straighten up your right leg under you by drawing up on it until your weight is evenly divided on the feet. This straightening up will cause the clubhead to move straight back from the ball. This is the most important movement of all, I think, because it gets you started slowly. Practice that point until you get it. Straightening up the right knee—not to the point of jerking it, however—enables you to draw the clubhead away from the ball without the least body away.

JOHNSON'S LOVE FOR HUNTING DELAYS 'SIG'

Reno, Feb. 19.—The love for hunting at the expense of a believed here to be held by Walter Johnson's "big game" rather than a 1-1ch over the fence. Johnson's love for hunting is so great that he would not even consider a fight with a champion boxer. He said he was "hunting" for a while this week or next. IO TRANSFORMER

GRID LEAKS ARE OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

For a great many years after the introduction of the three element vacuum tube to the radio art, the use of an extremely high resistance in series with the grid of the tube was merely a matter of bit or miss. Wireless operators who at heart are all experimenters, found that a pencil line or a smear of ink connecting the grid leak to the grid filament, made a very considerable difference in the sensitivity of their receiving set. Eventually manufacturers of wireless equipment incorporated a crude high resistance to accomplish this result.

When the advent of Radio for the layman came, the manufacturer of the grid leak had come into more and more respect and it was considered worthy "the big pay" due to him in Radio. Changes in tube construction, as regards the various voltages used for their operation, different types of filaments, a multiplicity of elements, all made a different value of grid leak for most efficient operation.

When the specifications call for a "one meg" or "two meg" grid leak, the manufacturer of the tube has to put in a value of resistance are required to enable the accumulated charge of the incoming signal to leak off the grid of the tube for the succeeding electric charge. A simple analogy may be made of the operation of an automobile. The motor of the car is the grid of the tube. If the car is to move, the motor must be kept from overheating. As a result, the car is to move, the motor must be kept from overheating. As a result, the car is to move, the motor must be kept from overheating.

the tube has been in operating service, the power value and the type of filament used. As the value is extremely sensitive, the value of the grid leak is to be determined by experiment with a reliable variable grid leak ranging from one to five megohms.

BILLIONTH FLY. POWER IN A LOOP

A calculation made of the amount of power picked up by a loop one foot in diameter in a laboratory in New York State receiving grid impulses from five transmitters indicated that it was equal to only one billionth of a fly power. The energy set free by a horse, by climbing up the wall is equal, so according to the computation, the amount of energy the loop would receive in a continuous period of thirty years.

KARAS Harmonik Transformers

Will impart to all radio sets the marvelous natural musical quality that was responsible for their selection for The New American Super

Not only the engineers of the Boston American—practically all of the prominent radio testing laboratories in the country—have pronounced the Karas Harmonik to be in a class by itself, the very pinnacle of transformer perfection.

Only the most exhaustive scientific tests justified them in this verdict. These are the facts they discovered:

Fact No. 1
Low Distributed Capacity
High distributed capacity in any transformer winding acts as a well known cause of distortion. Karas Harmonik transformers are wound with by-pass means of the high frequency and a correct, modified, frequency resistant capacitor.

Fact No. 2
Large Iron Core
The amount of magnetic flux available for any transformer is directly proportional to the cross section of the iron core and the number of turns on the primary. A small iron core, therefore, by restricting the flux, causes distortion in the frequency output.

Fact No. 3
High Inductance
In these transformers of large size, the inductance is so high that distortion is prevented by the use of low frequency amplifiers in the tube and the use of the Karas Harmonik transformer.

Fact No. 4
Low Hysteresis Loss
Hysteresis loss is the waste of energy consumed in reversing the magnetic reluctance of the iron core. Karas Harmonik transformers are wound with the best of each frequency range, reducing the amount of energy consumed in reversing the iron core.

Fact No. 5
Scientifically Shielded
Interference with the operation of the Karas Harmonik transformer is prevented by the use of a shielded winding, which is placed in a shielded container.

Fact No. 6
No Core Saturation
Saturation of the iron core is prevented by the use of a shielded winding, which is placed in a shielded container.

Fact No. 7
No Vital Parts Exposed
Transformers having exposed parts are dangerous to the user. Karas Harmonik transformers are wound with the best of each frequency range, reducing the amount of energy consumed in reversing the iron core.

Fact No. 8
High Amplification
The Karas Harmonik transformer is wound with the best of each frequency range, reducing the amount of energy consumed in reversing the iron core.

Fact No. 9
Low Frequency
The Karas Harmonik transformer is wound with the best of each frequency range, reducing the amount of energy consumed in reversing the iron core.

Fact No. 10
Convert Entire Band of Frequencies
Most transformers are a case of amplification in a narrow band of frequencies. Karas Harmonik transformers are wound with the best of each frequency range, reducing the amount of energy consumed in reversing the iron core.

Fact No. 11
Transformers Perfectly Matched
The Karas Harmonik transformer is wound with the best of each frequency range, reducing the amount of energy consumed in reversing the iron core.

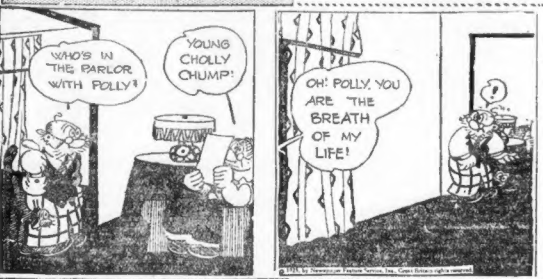

Fact No. 12
The Ideal Transformer
The Karas Harmonik transformer is wound with the best of each frequency range, reducing the amount of energy consumed in reversing the iron core.

HAVE YOU SEEN THIS MAN?
Friends and relatives of Short Chatter, the well-known man about town, have asked the police to try to find him. He has not been seen since last night. This morning the police, who were looking for him, were told that he was in the city. He was seen in the city. He was seen in the city. He was seen in the city.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

THOUSANDS of poor people who have a good looking wolf, you can get him a star and tell him he's a police dog.

SOME people are so afraid the wolf will get away that they tie him up in the back yard.

A wolf has to be careful these days as to whose door he goes to.

TABLE TALK AT HOME

By Carolyn Lisberg

Lecturer and Writer on the Training and Education of Children.

WHAT kind of talk are your children accustomed to hear at meal times? That it is an important influence in their lives is shown by the remark of a seventeen-year-old girl.

"I've just found out why I am not as well posted as Helen on affairs of the day. How she happens to know so much more about current events than most girls was explained when I dined at her home."

"Every member of her family took an intelligent interest in whatever was being discussed. Every one who spoke was given a polite hearing. The younger brother and sister were not admonished that children should be seen and not heard. They too, were allowed to express opinions provided they did not monopolize the conversation."

"It was a revelation to me that table talk could be so an educative factor. At my home dad and brother never addressed the women except when we were all gossiping about friends. The man talked athletics, the women drama when dad told to be ignored."

"I left Helen's house determined that if ever I became presiding genius over a home I would never let table talk degenerate into anything as meaningless as it has been at my home."

"If a child hears misdirected, petty talk at meal times it will certainly affect his own way of thinking. If he hears civility or world problems discussed he will learn there are more important matters in life than his own school worries and thus be helped to become growing up self-centered."

BEDTIME STORY

Broadcast Daily Through WNAC

By Foxy Granda.
BUNNY stood back and waited for Bunny to take his turn throwing quotes. Up to the mark hopped the little rabbit, lifted the quilt on his that paw and threw it right over the pig.

"You're certainly the cat's whiskers," announced Bobby, laugh ing.

Bunny straightened his jacket and hopped off to sit down on the porch with Bobby.

"The cat's whiskers," repeated Bunny. "Nothing in the world quite so useful to the cat as whiskers."

"You surprise me," said Bobby. "I thought they were only ornamental."

"That's where you're wrong," said Bunny. "Of course I do think whiskers are rather becoming to cats—and he gave his whiskers another caress. But that is not nearly as important as their usefulness."

Just then Bunny, or cat, sneaked out from under the porch. Her eyes were set and gleaming. After all you can't change animal's nature. And it is Bunny's nature to catch birds.

"Did you notice that?" asked Bobby.

"What?" asked Bobby.

"The cat's whiskers," said Bunny. "They're just for show."

WHO SAID IT AND WHERE?

"As idle as a painted ship"

Greater idleness than this described by Chelridge in the "Ancient Mariner" is hard to imagine.

"Oh the heart is a tree and fellerless thing—"

A wave on an ocean, a bird on the wing."

The body may be brought under subjection, but not the heart. Julia Pardee says in "The Captive Greek Girl."

"To observations which ourselves we make,
